Super Group helps drive change in Alexandra

For 30 years, Rays of Hope, a non-profit company, has been partnering with the community of Alexandra for lasting change in Gauteng, South Africa.

Rays of Hope has been a long-time partner and beneficiary of Super Group, which has donated two minibuses every year for many years. Rays of Hope's development and empowerment programmes use these vehicles to transport its many children. During the lockdown of 2020, these vehicles served as the backbone of the food distribution service that provided food hampers to thousands of the most vulnerable people.

"Like Rays of Hope, we are determined to impact the environments within which we operate in a tangible and meaningful way, and we believe strongly in the power of partnership to transform lives for the better," says John Mackay, Group Company Secretary, Super Group. "We are proud and privileged to be part of the journey from vulnerability to independence that its work makes possible for so many."

Recently, Super Group donated 360 boxes of sanitisers and many boxes of surgical face masks to keep staff and visitors in Alexandra safe during the third wave of COVID-19 infections in SA. "Super Group is proud to combine efforts with Rays of Hope in the fight against COVID-19. It is in our interest, as a company and as individuals, to do everything possible to stop the spread of the virus," concludes Mackay.
